

Day after Bengaluru double-murder, three people arrested

There had been a fight between one of the victims and the main accused over a woman, the incident is being investigated: Addl Commissioner of Police (East)

POLICE arrested three persons, including the main accused, Felix alias Joker Felix, at Kunigal in Tumakuru district on Wednesday in connection with the murder of the MD and CEO of a company providing internet services in the city on Tuesday.

While P Shabarish alias Felix alias Joker Felix (27) hails from Devarachikkanahalli on Bannerghatta Road, the other accused have been identified as V Vinay Reddy (23) of Roopena Agrahara and S Santosh alias Santhu (26) of Marenahalli.

Meanwhile, the investigation of the case has taken several twists and turns with the accused giving conflicting statements during their interrogation.

Initially, it was suspected that business rivalry between the victims and Felix was the reason for the double-murder. The police are probing the involvement of the owner of another company providing broadband and ISP services on Bannerghatta Road where the two victims and Felix were working.

The latest twist to the case is the fight over a woman colleague between one of the victims and Felix. The woman working with the firm on Bannerghatta Road is said to be close to Felix. Subramanyam, one of the victims, who was working at the firm on Bannerghatta Road, was getting closer to the woman after divorcing his wife. It is also alleged that he had fired Felix in order to keep him away from her.

Meanwhile, the police picked up the owner of the firm

Bannerghatta Road on Wednesday for interrogation. After the double-murder, Felix made several calls to him. He was picked up from Kempegowda International Airport.

Subramanyam and Vinu Kumar, the victims, were earlier working with the firm on Bannerghatta Road. They later quit the firm and opened Aironics Media Private Limited at Amruthahalli.

Police are investigating if there was any business rivalry between the owner of the firm on Bannerghatta Road and the two victims. During the investigation, it was learnt that Subramanyam used to force the former woman colleague to join his firm, which angered Felix.

"The police are investigating if the broadband firm's owner has any role in the case. However, he has not been arrested. The fight between one of the victims and the main accused over the woman is also being investigated," Raman Gupta, Additional Commissioner of Police (East), told TNIE.

MODERN UNTOUCHABILITY

N SOUNDARRAJAN, a resident of Thalankuppam since birth, said that while many of the dominant caste families in Nettukuppam were empathetic to their plight, they were unwilling to stand up against their 'own people' who object to the toilet.

"These handful of families have made it clear in tasteless language that 'our waste' cannot flow through their part of the neighborhood even if it is underground. They have also hurled caste abuses which I don't want to repeat," he said.

While the toilet itself was over 40 years old, it was taken up for renovation by the city corporation three years ago, when the issue started.

"We have been using the toilet ever since I was a young girl without any problem because houses have not come up near the toilet then. Several houses have come up on the Nettukuppam side near the toilet now and they are the ones who are now protesting," said 70-year-old Karuppaiy.

N Kavitha, a young mother of two children aged below 10, has been taking her children to the next nearest public toilet about a kilometre away on Thalankuppam beach road.

"I'm forced to walk to that toilet though we have a public toilet right here. I take the children there once in the morning as soon as they get up but by the time they get ready for school, they sometimes ask to go again and I rush them there. At nights many of us are forced to use open spaces," she said.

Councillors of wards 1 and 4, Sivakumar and R Jayaraman, have made futile attempts to put the toilet to use.

"Even after police and corporation officials got involved the last time when a group protested when pipes were being laid, they did not budge. We have written to multiple corporation officials and also to the CM cell," Jayaraman said.

N Soundarrajan, a resident

Nadu Untouchability Eradication Front (TNUEF) said they will try all means possible to end the conflict amicably.

In its complaint to the CM's cell sent on July 3, TNUEF had said, "A wall has been raised in the area where the drainage pipe from the toilet to be used by 200 families belonging to the Scheduled Caste community was to be laid. By obstructing the drainage flow and thereby the usage of the toilet that had served the community for years, modern untouchability is being perpetrated in the most horrifying fashion."

"The issue should be resolved quickly because there is tension building up between the two communities," Rajkumar said.

When contacted, a senior corporation official said that if the objections raised by the dominant communities are found to be coloured by caste prejudice, the civic body will proceed as per law to ensure that the toilet is operational.

As a stop-gap arrangement, the civic body is planning to operate the toilet complex with septic tanks for the next three months, another senior official said.

vintage cars for the past 15 years in Krishnagiri. Recently, a friend of his working in the film industry informed me about the car that needs to be restored. Ashwin contacted Tamil Nadu Congress Committee president KS Alagiri, through his father Rajendra Varma, who is Pradesh Congress Committee member.

"I received an order to restore the vehicle on May 31 and the vehicle by July 10. But within 30 days, we restored the car. Many missing parts were brought, and new windshields for the car were manufactured in other places. Rusted parts were fabricated and work was finished within the time and now it's in driving condition. The renovated car will be dispatched to TNCC Charitable Trust on Thursday after Krishnagiri Congress MP Dr A Chellakumar visits the showroom. Following the information about the renovation of K Kamaraj's car, thousands of people visited the car centre on Wednesday.

Assam woman murders 7-yr-old for playing with daughter, held Coimbatore: A 29-year-old Assam woman was arrested for murdering a seven-year-old boy for playing with her daughter in Sulur on Wednesday. The arrested was identified as Z Nurja Kathun, a supervisor at a mill at Kalangal. A month ago, Zaheer Hussain, a relative of Nurja, started working in the same mill. There was a quarrel between Nurja Kathun and Zaheer's wife. Following that, she warned Zaheer's son not to play with her daughter. However, on Tuesday, the boy did it again and in a fit of rage, Nurja strangled him using a banian cloth. Upon information, police remanded her under judicial custody.

1.25 tonnes of beedi leaves seized at Tharuvaikulam beach

Thoothukudi: Thoothukudi Q Branch sleuths seized 1.25 tonnes of beedi leaves at Tharuvaikulam beach on Wednesday. According to sources, they received a tip off that a group of men were smuggling beedi leaves to Sri Lanka. "The smugglers came to know that the police was on their trail and drove their boat into deep sea. However, the sleuths were waiting to nab them. Some of the smugglers jumped into the sea to escape police clutches," said sources. A video of the incident has gone viral on social media. A case has been registered and further investigation is on.

'Victims have not even been compensated by state yet'

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1: "As SC/ST (POA) Act sections were invoked against the accused, CB-CID should have filed the charge sheet within 60 days. But they have not done it even 73 days after the registration of case on Arunkumar's complaint. We suspect CB-CID sleuths are intentionally delaying filing of charge sheet against Singh. The state has not even disbursed the compensation to the victims," he said. Tiphagne further said the state has also kept the inquiry reports of Cheranmahadevi sub-divisional magistrate Mohammed Shabbir Alam and senior IAS officer P Amudha under wraps.

UK-based NatWest group to hire 3,000 engineers in India

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

THE UK-based NatWest Group plans to hire around 5,000 engineers in the next three years, of which 3,000 will be for the Global Capability Centre in Chennai.

Chief information officer Scott Marcar said the increase in number of engineers in Chennai would happen once the state government comes out with a fresh policy for Information Technology and Business Process Management (BPM). The fresh policy by TN government aims to revive the Information Communication Technology (ICT) Policy 2018 as there is a need for a shift in the policy in the post-Covid era with the inclusion of trending technology.

Marcar said hiring will be in 'high end' engineering areas like Java, Python, Data Engineering, Artificial Intelligence skill and analytics. He also highlighted that NatWest is planning to roll out Artificial Intelligence strategy globally and India will be a major player.

Balalore crash: 7 railway employees suspended for 'negligence' in duty

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT @ Bhubaneswar

OVER a month after the tragic train crash at Bahanaga Bazaar in Balasore district that killed 293 passengers and left over 900 injured, heads have finally started rolling with seven railway employees placed under suspension for alleged 'negligence' in duty.

The suspended employees include two senior section engineers and one technician arrested by CBI, besides the on-duty station manager, an assistant signal telecom engineer, a traffic inspector and a signal maintainer.

Last week, the CBI had arrested senior section engineer (SSE) signal Amir Khan, SSE signal in-charge AK Mahanta and technician Pappu Kumar on charge of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and causing disappearance of evidence of offence.

General manager of South Eastern Railway (SER) Anil Kumar Mishra on Wednesday said seven employees have been suspended so far and further action will be taken after CBI files its chargesheet. "The accident took place due to negligence and lack of alertness of some railway employees. Had they remained alert, the mishap could have been avoided," he said. Mishra said the SER suspended the employees as per preliminary findings. The CBI is yet to share its report as the central agency is still interrogating the arrested employees and some others, he added. Accompanied by Kharagpur divisional railway manager KR Chaudhary, the SER GM visited the accident spot, inspected the restored tracks.

SET UP SPECIAL COMPLAINT CELLS: HC TO HOME SECY

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1: The officer said some police officers, who were acting hand in glove with an advocate and a local politician, extracted huge amount of money from him after he purchased a piece of land and also imprisoned him in a false case. The court also ordered the home secretary and the DGP to set up special complaint cells with separate phone numbers at the offices of the DGP and the Directorate of Vigilance and Anti-Corruption.
